

In what ways, if at all, have you investigated and/or questioned your sexuality throughout various periods of your life and in relationship to your work-life?

There are presently 100K (+/-) international LGBTQ students in US higher education. In what ways does your institution and/or organization intentionally create avenues, programs, policies, practices and strategies to support this seemingly invisible population?

What resources are available for LGBTQ students in host countries? To what degree does your institution and/or organization provide on-site support for LGBTQ students abroad?
