

Funding Strategies for Advisors Working with Low SES and First-Gen Students

Webinar Presentation | January 23, 2014

Resources and Links

Overview of the Webinar Presentation

Low-income, first-generation college students face unique obstacles to studying abroad, yet potential solutions may require intentionality and multifaceted efforts. This webinar will highlight innovative practices for supporting first-generation college students with high financial need, including institutional and affiliate partnership approaches. The session will demonstrate how early information sharing and scholarship award notification, enhanced advising support, and campus collaborations are all critical components of helping low-income, first-generation college students mitigate myriad financial and academic risks of studying abroad.

Resources from the University of Texas - Austin

- Hutchison International Scholars Program
- First Abroad Scholars Program
- My Credit Abroad database
- Study Abroad by Major at the University of Texas - Austin

Resources from the Institution for Study Abroad at Butler University

- IFSA-Butler First Generation College Student Scholarship
- IFSA-Butler Fill the GAP \(Global Account Program\)
- IFSA-Butler FGCS "For Families" publication
- IFSA-Butler FGCS "Para Familias" publication
- IFSA-Butler FGCS Blogs

Please note that the IFSA-Butler publications are copyrighted material. If you are interested in utilizing these publications in your office, please contact Michelle Tolan directly for more information about using these resources with your students.